

Closing New York State Prisons is not the answer.

Join the fight to keep New York State prisons from closing.

Governor Paterson is proposing to shut down Camp Pharsalia, Camp Georgetown, Camp Gabriels and Mt. McGregor correction facilities in upstate New York.

The four minimum security prisons slated for closure play a critically important role in helping to prepare inmates for a successful re-entry into the community. Not only will New York lose these fundamental cornerstones of our corrections system, but inmates currently housed in these facilities will be sent to other prisons -- worsening a severe and dangerous overcrowding problem.

Tell him our prisons should stay open so we can keep New York safe.
